1b. From the list in 1a, describe one experience you found most rewarding and what you learned from it.

So far, I find my service work as the Area Treasurer most rewarding. I saw, first hand, the spiritual principles behind the 7th Tradition. I learned that 7th Tradition is gratitude in action. I learned that everyone's contribution counts and that it doesn't matter how "much." What matters is that we participate – that "Participation is key to harmony" (Concept Four). I also learned the principle of abundance, which I apply not only in my service work but also in my personal life. I learned that I have enough talent to contribute, that I have enough time, that I have enough resources, - that I am enough.

2. Describe your experience, skills, and personal qualities that you would bring to the Area as an officer.

In the past three years that I served as the SCWS Treasurer, I've had opportunities to attend the Southwest Regional Delegates' Meeting (SWRDM) where I gained knowledge on how to prepare for the World Service Conference. Participating in SWRDM, twice, gave me a broader view of participation beyond the area level. I learned about how other areas conduct their businesses and that we all learn from each other.

Additionally, I have over twenty years of corporate experience primarily in Business Administration and Accounting. My diverse background in Asset Management, Retail, Hospitality, Taxes and Non-profit organizations are great assets. Aside from my technical experience, I am also analytical, proactive, and can think outside the box. I value teamwork and I'm a firm believer in asking for help. I look for talents in others and welcome others' participation. I am becoming better at conveying my ideas to others and more comfortable with public speaking. I attribute my work ethics to my parents and my natural curiosity to my maternal grandfather who taught me how to play chess before I learned my ABCs.

Most importantly, I am mother of two smart, willful, and independent girls who, by the grace of God and their participation in Alateen, turned out to be productive members of society. Both of them are grown and out on their own. Lastly, my gratitude to the world-wide fellowship of Al-Anon and its legacies for providing a safe environment for me to grow and flourish.

3. What is your vision for Southern California World Service Al-Anon?

My vision for the area is to increase participation and establish cohesiveness while attracting talented leaders with strong programs.

NOTE: Be prepared to discuss at the November Election Assembly why you would be an asset as an SCWS officer (2 minute limit).

I have read and understand the Job Description for the position(s) to which I may be elected. (Posted at scws-al-anon.org)
